TRANSFIGURATION OF OUR LORD

Sunday, March 3

The Transfiguration of Our Lord is celebrated on the Sunday before the beginning of Lent. We celebrate Jesus' glory and transformation on a mountain top with Moses, Elijah and three disciples, Peter, James and John. The altar paraments will be white, the color of light, gladness, and joy in Christ.

March 6

7:00 pm

Ashes don't say we're holy. They say we're sinners. They don't say we're perfect, only that we're willing to try. They don't say we're models of religiosity, but they do say we belong.

- Sr Mary Ann Walsh, RSM

FIRST SUNDAY IN LENT

Yesterday my two daughters, aged 8 and 6, dragged me from the house to our local movie theater. Up until this point I never showed much interest in phony, make-believe, little green aliens capable of altering the balance of our universe. We arrived at the theater with no time to spare, and hastily took our places in the front row. Seems last folks in always end up in the front row.

It was another Father/Daughter outing which meant I'd laugh when they laughed and pretend to cry when the girls cried. Shortly, the storyline began to play out and I couldn't help to give up a little genuine laughter. I watched this young boy, Elliot, lob a ball into an out building, only to have the ball tossed back out to him. We, the audience, had no idea what or who was hiding in the shed. I was captured by the moment. Shortly thereafter, we were introduced to a little green alien with a funny voice, a meandering stride, and a very unrelenting appetite. I became totally engrossed in the story, and totally in love with the characters; Elliot, Gertie, and Michael. Movie critics of the "modern era" still label the movie, E.T., as timeless, universal, and magical. Perhaps seeing this classic again will rekindle those memories of our own childhoods, our personal right-of-passage, and a refresher on true friendship and trust.

I think it's fair to suggest this all happened yesterday for me. I had to do a little research to gather the exact time (or should I say decade or century). If asked about, I would offer something along the lines of a multiple-choice question. When was E.T. released? 17 years ago, 27 years ago, or 37 years ago. If you'd guessed 37 years, this would be correct. So, you see, when I started this short blurb I was fairly accurate by beginning the story with, "Yesterday." Anyone close to 60 or older will know exactly what I meant. And those little 8 and 6 year-old cuties have cracked the 40 year threshold.

Attempting to keep with recurring themes on our Movie Nights, March's theme happens to be a Night of the Classics. When I suggested Casablanca I was quickly shot down, only becoming agreeable when E.T. was settled upon. The Christian Ed people can be tough as nails.

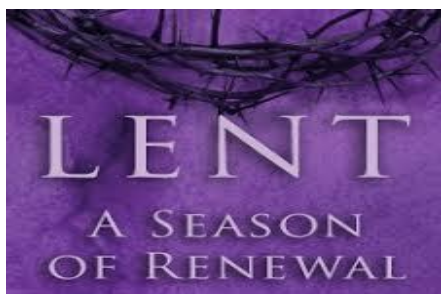

February's attendance was low but did little to dampen our spirits. Huge thank-yous to Pennie and Larry for our Italian cuisine night, always reliable Sandy, always upbeat Heather, Lilly and friend. Thank you, Keith Leedy for installing the propane furnace.

Movie night is March 8th beginning at 6:00 with walking taco's, a side, dessert and a beverage. Come and revisit your old friends and fall in love with the little green alien all over again. I guarantee that if you come, you'll be walking into worship on March 10th, holding your index finger up and laughing. You'll all be saying, "E.T. PHONE HOME!"
